Dr. Jean Harris
Director of Instruction

Dr. Jean's passion for teaching led to a career as a college professor and golf professional. She is one of only 65 ladies who have the distinction of being a "Master Professional" in the LPGA. In 2006, Harris received the LPGA Section Teacher of the Year award. Most recently she was recognized by Golf Digest Magazine as one of the Best 50 Women Teachers in America in 2010.

Dr. Jean comes to golf instruction through an academic background. She has three degrees in Health and Physical Education and a Doctorate degree in Adult Education. Dr. Jean's motto of teaching is that "I teach people golf, not golf to people". She utilizes golf psychology and various teaching aids during her lessons. Her greatest asset as a golf professional is her communication skills.

Dr. Jean has taught in many different golf settings. She has taught golf in group settings at the college level, coached a boy's high school team to a region championship, public driving ranges and golf courses, resort and private country clubs. This versatility enables her to communicate to all ages and levels of ability.

Since coming to Bluffton in 2007, she has been a feature golf writer for the Bluffton City Sun that goes out to 25,000 homes in Bluffton. In 2010, she became the Co-director of the LPGA/USGA Girls Golf Club of Bluffton that is growing the game for young girls in the Lowcountry.

Ed Sealy III
Head Golf Professional

Born in the small town of Lehighton, Pa, Ed has been around golf his entire life. Living on the 15th hole of a small private course enabled Ed to sneak out and play the few holes around his home at a fairly young age. Ed excelled at the game throughout his junior golf and high school career.

Prior to moving to the Lowcountry in 2001, Ed attended Penn State University and studied Professional Golf Management. Once landing in Hilton Head, Ed began his professional career at Harbour Town Links in Sea Pines, rising to the level of assistant professional. While at Sea Pines he had the opportunity to graduate from their Teacher Certification Program as well as glean valuable information and techniques from Golf Digest Top 100 Instructor Rick Barry.

After a brief break from the golf industry, Ed has returned to his passion, bringing his 8 years of teaching experience to Rose Hill Golf Club. As a PGA apprentice, Ed is dedicated to growing the game and shaping the abilities of those interested in playing.

Clayton A. Brown
Assistant Golf Professional

Prior to settling in Bluffton, Clayton's golfing life was shaped on the golf courses of Lynchburg, VA and Chattanooga, TN. Throughout his childhood Clayton excelled at many sports including, lacrosse, tennis, football, and baseball. All while having a very successful junior and varsity career in golf.

Upon landing in South Carolina, Clayton attended the Professional Golfers' Career College and graduated with a degree in Golf Management. His thirst for knowledge now has him attending the University of South Carolina Beaufort in route to a Bachelor's Degree in Hospitality Management.

Having been around the game and all the teaching aspects for 7 years, his faith and teaching have become his "life's calling." His main goal is to use his athletic ability along with a "down to earth" approach, to share his love for the game so everyone can enjoy golf to their utmost potential.
